

Website Privacy Statement

We are committed to protecting the privacy of our website visitors. By accessing and using this site, you signify your consent to the terms of this Website Privacy Statement.

Collection and Use of Information

We collect IP addresses, browser types, domain names, access times and referring website addresses from our website users in order to:

- Improve access to our website;
- Find out what information you and other visitors access most frequently; and,
- Help us tailor our website content.

We do not link IP addresses to personally identifiable information. We do not sell, share or rent information to others.

Cookies

From time to time, we may place a "cookie" on your computer. A cookie is a file that is placed on your hard disk that records information about your Internet usage, such as your IP address, browser type, or domain name.

Cookies:

- Help us understand how you use and how many times you revisit our site
- Contain anonymous, non-personal information
- Cannot be used to run programs or deliver viruses to your computer
- Can only be read by a web server in the domain that issued the cookie to you

You have the ability to accept or decline cookies. You can choose to have your computer warn you each time a cookie is being sent or you can choose to turn off all cookies. This can be done through your browser's help menu.

Note: If you turn cookies off, you won't have access to many features provided by various websites.

Email communication

When you contact us by email, your e-mail address will only be used to reply to you or to send you the information that you have requested.

Please do not send us private and confidential information using email. We cannot be sure that this information will remain confidential. If you have something personal to share with us, please feel free to contact us by telephone or to speak with us in person.
